Presidents Message - Thanksgiving

Wishing everyone a happy Thanksgiving. It's been quite a year, actually it's been quite an almost two year experience. Hopefully we are seeing some light at the end-of-the-tunnel.

Amongst the things I am happy to report is the COVID-19 environment has improved enough for the DSCA board and committees to return more fully to face-to-face meetings. Earlier this month Cheryl Mendelson, CEO of the Van Wezel Foundation was the guest speaker updating all on the early concept and planning stages for our new performing arts center. Newly elected Mayor Arroyo will be our guest at our December board meeting.

Another noteworthy item to be thankful for this year is the continuing progress being made at the Bay Park and Rosemary District Park sites (see further information below) further making more precious, improved green space available for downtown residents.

Happy Thanksgiving!

But possibly the biggest item to be grateful for this Thanksgiving is the significant progress that has been made in the fight against COVID-19. COVID cases in greater downtown Sarasota are now only around 13% of last year, this said COVID is not gone and won't be for quite some time. Extra care is still needed. Our neighborhood remains vulnerable with the vast majority of our 12,000 neighborhood residents living in multi-unit buildings, often traveling by plane, and prone to attend larger gatherings. So, as we get out-and-about more I urge us to be a community that does so by taking common-sense precautions well-known to all.

In closing I'd be remiss if I didn't express a special level of gratitude to our medical, caregiver, first-responders, educators, and others in our community who have been on the COVID-19 frontlines. I know we are all grateful for their past and continuing dedication.

Have a great holiday, everyone.

Public Art Master Plan Community Survey Now Open

The City of Sarasota Office of Public Art is seeking community feedback via a new Public Art Survey now available. The survey is part of the public art master plan process. When completed next year, the master plan will provide recommendations on implementing public art resources citywide and prioritizing opportunities to best serve the community.

“We envision an equitable community where integrating public art into City initiatives, neighborhood revitalization efforts and private developments is a norm, where every citizen and visitor in Sarasota can freely experience quality art and creative expression as part of their daily lives,” said Senior Planner Mary Davis Wallace. “Your feedback will help shape the future of public art in Sarasota.”

The online survey will be open until Jan. 14. The City will be hosting in-person community workshops for artists, business owners and the general public in early 2022.

For more information, contact Mary Davis Wallace at 941-263-6349 or Mary.Wallace@sarasotaFL.gov and/or please visit the City public art website to take the Public Art Survey.

Also at our November Board meeting, the Board approved the strategic goals for our new Arts and Cultural Committee. The committee has already jumped into our local arts world by meeting with the City's Public Art Coordinator Mary Davis Wallace about the City's Public Art Master Plan. It has also begun to develop an amateur art program for downtown residents designed to encourage people to create visual art.

Bay Park Update

Earlier this month the Sarasota City Commission approved changes to the partnership agreement between the city and The Bay Park Conservancy aimed to streamline the process, accelerate completion of the project while at the same time saving a significant amount of money.

On the construction front are significant new developments:

- Officially planned for Thanksgiving Day will be the opening of the renovated Mangrove Bayou Bridge complete with the new Paddle and Kayak Launch.
- Construction of the concession building and restrooms is now fully underway.
- The Bay Park Conservancy also has unveiled plans for the first playground, inspired by The Bay and the park's natural environment.

The completion of Phase 1 (see rendering), including the Concession Building and playground, of the park is now planned for Summer 2022. Construction of the boardwalk pier will follow in about two years given the complexity of the project, environmental considerations and special permitting required.

DSCA Board News November Wrap up

DSCA Board Meeting | November 3, 2021 At the November 3 Board Meeting, we heard from Cheryl Mendelson, CEO, Van Wezel Foundation. She discussed the mission and history of the Van Wezel and why there is a need for a new performing arts center. She presented proposed changes and a possible new layout of a new Sarasota Performing Arts Center at the Bay Park. Mendelson discussed the results of a recent survey the Van Wezel conducted and shared case studies and inspiration for the new building. Rosemary Park Update / Developments

The Park Design Team has released 3 Concept drawings for the Rosemary District Park. These designs are based on surveys collected from 852 people. A sample of one of the three concepts follows.

Residents are going to be asked to provide feedback which will be incorporated into 2 new concept drawings next month.

The buildings on the park site (Boulevard of the Arts and Central) will likely be demolished before the end of the year.

DSCA and the Rosemary District Association are going to be providing regular updates to the community. Current plans are to have a final park concept selected during January.

Guest Speaker:

Erik Arroyo

Mayor / Commissioner,
City of Sarasota

Sarasota City Commissioner Erik Arroyo is the City of Sarasota’s new ceremonial mayor. At 31, he’s the youngest person to serve as the city’s mayor. Arroyo is the first person born in a Hispanic country to serve in the post. Born in the Dominican Republic, Arroyo immigrated to the U.S. as a teenager and was raised by a single mother. He graduated from Riverview High School in Sarasota before attending the University of Florida for his undergraduate degree and Florida A&M University for his law degree. Arroyo is now an attorney at Sarasota law firm Band, Gates and Dramis. Arroyo was elected to the District 3 City Commission seat last year. He served as vice mayor during his first year on the commission.
